

Comment to FCC 13-86

I don't believe that the government should be regulating morals to America. Government should remember that they are needed to defend the constitution not defend individuals ideas of what is morally right as a religious belief. Instead let us defend the first amendment to the constitution. Congress already passed the V-chip law to help parents but in no way should government take over for parent's responsibility.